Majors
The Political Science Department offers undergraduate majors leading to B.A. degrees in Political Science, Political Science/Administrative Studies, Political Science/International Affairs, Political Science/Law and Society, and Political Science/Public Service. In addition, the department offers minors in Political Science and International Relations.

Counseling Counseling on graduation and departmental requirements and on enrollment is handled in the department office by the student advising staff.

For more information about the undergraduate programs, call or write the Department of Political Science, (951) 827-5502 or (951)827-5312.

Political Science Major
The study of political science provides undergraduates with career opportunities in law, government service, education, journalism, and business. Because career goals may vary, the department offers two distinct majors. For students planning careers in such areas as law, journalism, or teaching, the traditional major in Political Science is appropriate. For students considering careers in government service, especially for such positions as program and budget analyst, urban planner, and executive or administrative assistant, the appropriate major is the Political Science/ Public Service major.

Further information on the study of law or the legal profession may be obtained from the departmental prelaw counselor.

Political Science/Administrative Studies Major
The Political Science/Administrative Studies major combines the disciplinary interests of political science with a particular focus on administrative behavior, tools of decision making, and politics of public policy. The Administrative Studies component provides an interdisciplinary approach to training in administrative analytical skills and, more importantly, to the study of the policies, politics, and theories of public administration. The Business Administration courses provide a variety of perspectives on these objectives. In addition, they should be of particular value to those planning to either enter directly into public administration (federal, state, or local levels) or attend a professional school of administration.

Political Science/International Affairs Major
The Political Science/International Affairs major offers a challenging opportunity to observe and participate in the dynamics of global interaction. As versatile as it is valuable, a degree in international affairs prepares the student for work in many diverse careers in the private sector, government, and academia. From diplomatic missions to the United Nations to intense debate with a private “think tank,” careers in international affairs should appeal to students seeking to understand and influence the world in which we live.

Political Science/Law and Society Major
The Political Science/Law and Society major combines the breadth of a political science major with a particular focus on the theme of law and law-like relationships. The major provides a multidisciplinary approach to the study of legal and law-like institutions and relationships and focuses on relationships that have formed the core of political science: the emergence and development of law, the relationship between law and values, and the growth of the power of the state, among others. The courses provide a variety of perspectives on this theme, and the range of courses should be of particular benefit to those who plan to attend law school.

Political Science/Public Service Major
The Political Science/Public Service major introduces students to knowledge and skills associated with managerial career positions in government, without sacrifice of either a broad knowledge of politics or a liberal arts education.

The Model United Nations (MUN) program is a campuswide activity that combines academic and social aspects. The academic preparation takes place within the Political Science Department, with one course, POSC 142L. The simulation preparation takes place within the UCR MUN organization, for participation in external conferences. Each year, the UCR MUN organization hosts a two-day MUN conference, which attracts over a thousand high school students. In recent years, the UCR MUN High School MUN has been the third largest in the nation. Planning and running this conference is entirely in the hands of UCR students participating in the UCR MUN program. The program provides training in administration and diplomacy. In the spring, a UC MUN delegation attends either a local conference or the National Model United Nations Conference in New York City.

The requirements for graduate degrees in the Department of Political Science for students entering a program effective Fall 2001 may not be fully reflected below. Consult the department Graduate Secretary for current requirements.

Admission Admission to both the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees is based on the quality and character of previous academic work, scores on the GRE, and letters of evaluation from previous instructors. Applications are accepted for the Fall quarter only.

Master's Degree

In addition, students must complete at least one course from at least three of the five fields offered by the department (see listing below). Up to 8 units of academic work in related fields may be approved by the graduate advisor as part of the 36 units. The examination must be passed in one of the following fields:

1. Comparative Politics Students must complete the core course POSC 217 and at least one additional course in the field.
2. International Relations Students must complete the core course POSC 216 and at least one additional course in the field.

Doctoral Degree

The Department of Political Science offers the Ph.D. degree in Political Science. The doctoral program is organized into three stages. The first stage focuses on intensive course work and preparation for the Ph.D. examination. Normally taking two years, this period is devoted to the following:

1. Obtaining substantive background in the discipline through completion of three graduate courses per quarter
2. Selecting two major fields and one minor field of concentration
3. Satisfying course requirements for the major fields

The major fields may be chosen from among American Politics, Mass Political Behavior, Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Theory; the minor field, consisting of three courses, may be chosen from those above or, at the discretion of the graduate committee, a cognate field.

Course Work

During the first stage, students are also expected to satisfy three required courses: POSC 201, POSC 202A and POSC 202B.

1. Comparative Politics Students must complete the core course POSC 217 and at least three additional courses in the field.
2. International Relations Students must complete the core course POSC 216 and at least three additional courses in the field.
3. American Politics Students must complete the core course POSC 249 and at least three additional courses in the field.
4. Mass Political Behavior Students must complete a core course, either POSC 255 or POSC 256, and at least three additional courses in the field.
5. Political Theory Students must complete the core course POSC 221 and at least three additional courses in the field.

Minors selected from the fields listed above must include the core course plus two additional seminars in the field.

Specific course work in a cognate minor field varies depending on the course list approved by the graduate committee. POSC 290 courses may be accepted in lieu of seminars. However, prior to passing the Ph.D. examinations, no more than two POSC 290 courses are allowed, with no more than one in each field of examination. The limit can be exceeded if course staffing or scheduling problems require it. All POSC 290 courses must have prior approval of the graduate advisor. A POSC 290 course should only be taken if the material to be covered is not available in a scheduled course.

Written Qualifying Examination

The second stage of the program is normally one year (Year 3). In the fall quarter, the student enrolls in POSC 291 (Individual Coordinated Study) and prepares for the comprehensive examination. Written examinations in the two major fields are normally taken in the fall quarter of the third year. Postponements to this schedule are allowed in exceptional circumstances; all delays in taking comprehensive examinations must be approved by the Graduate Committee.

Professional Paper and Oral Defense

The winter and spring quarters are devoted in part to the preparation of the Professional Paper (POSC 285), which is required of all students, and Directed Research (POSC 297) to prepare a dissertation prospectus under the direction of the principal advisor. The purpose of the Professional Paper is the writing of a manuscript that demonstrates the capacity of the student to identify, implement, and report on a manageable research topic. Students also complete at least one additional course in both the winter and spring quarters. These courses are determined by the faculty and major advisor in consultation with the student and should be applicable either to completion of work in the minor field or to the dissertation project. In the spring quarter, students are advanced to candidacy upon successful completion of the oral defense of their dissertation prospectus.

Years 4 and 5 comprise the third stage of the program. Students are normally expected to complete their degree within this period. Additional time is provided if circumstances warrant it. Whether circumstances justify additional time is to be determined by the Graduate Committee, in cooperation with the thesis advisor.

Students who do not complete their degree requirements during this two-year period are closely reviewed on a biannual basis. These reviews are provided by the graduate advisor, after consultation with the dissertation advisor. Until completion of the Ph.D. requirements, each review includes targeted amounts of required progress, to be completed prior to the next review. Students who fail to complete their scheduled work are reviewed by the Graduate Program Committee for a recommendation of termination from the Political Science graduate program.

Normative Time to Degree

15 quarters.

General regulations applying to the dissertation and qualifying examinations are found in the Graduate Studies section of this catalog and in other Graduate Division and department publications.
